Nation Mourns, Pays Tribute to Herbert Hoover

NEW YORK (AP) — The nation, its proud flag at half-staff, bowed in mourning for the third time in less than a year today, as it bade solemn, sad farewell to its 31st President, Herbert Clark Hoover.

At 9 a.m. EDT, the huge bronze doors of St. Bartholomew's Episcopal Church on Park Avenue swung open and public homage to Hoover began.

His body will lie in state for 48 hours amid the Byzantine-Romantic grandeur of the nearly half-century-old edifice, guarded by an honor detail from all the armed services.

The tribute will be repeated on Friday and Saturday in Washington in the Capitol rotunda where assassinated President John F. Kennedy was honored last November, and where in April tribute was paid to Gen. Douglas MacArthur, the great warrior who once served as Hoover's Army chief of staff.

On Sunday, Hoover will be buried in his native Iowa, in quiet and simple dignity.

Hoover died at 11:35 a.m. Tuesday at the age of 90. His gallant old head gave out beneath the burden of a final illness that began Saturday with a massive internal hemorrhage. He passed away peacefully and painlessly in a deep coma.

Born in obscurity, the first American president from west of the Mississippi was a mining engineer and a self-made millionaire when he turned to public service. It fell his lot to be in the White House at the onset of the Great Depression and the electorate turned him out in 1932 after only one term, politically discredited.

But with grace and vigor, Hoover in private life regained the esteem that circumstance had cost him. At his death he was a revered elder statesman, respected even by the bitterest of his old political foes.

Hoover was a Quaker. But it was at St. Bartholomew's that the funeral was held for his wife, the former Lou Henry, who died 20 years ago of a heart attack.

From 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. today and again on Thursday, the public was invited to pay its respects to Hoover, who at 90 years and two months lived longer than any President save John Adams, who died at the age of 90 years and 8 months.

At 4:30 p.m. Thursday there will be a brief memorial service at St. Bartholomew's, including the Episcopal prayers for the dead. President Johnson plans to attend.

By request of the family, there will be no choir accompaniment. Organ music will be played instead. Admittance will be by invitation only.

On Friday morning, Hoover's body will travel by train to Washington, there to lie in state in the Capitol rotunda. The President plans to be at Union Station for the arrival.

Hoover Noted for Gentle Humor, Sense of Irony

By SAUL PETT
AP Special Correspondent

NEW YORK (AP) — His humor was gentle; his sense of irony, acute; his passion for brevity, intense.

In 1957, when he was 83 years old, already an ex-president 24 years and no longer charmed by the novelty, Herbert Hoover went to Independence, Mo., to help dedicate the library of another ex-president, Harry S. Truman.

He sat on the platform in 91-degree weather, and from his half-closed eyes and pursing mouth, it was difficult to tell which he suffered from more, the heat or the oratory.

Later, the 31st president of the United States was invited to the home of his friend, the 33rd president of the United States, for refreshment. A gushing matron cornered Hoover. What, she asked, do ex-presidents do with all their time?

"Madame," he said, "we spend our time taking pills and dedicating libraries."

It wasn't true. Hoover, at 83 and more, worked twice as much as most men half his age. But like all his humor, the remark was delivered deadpan from a square, apple-red face.

The words seemed to have been bitten off a fresh stalk of celery. The lines at the edges of his mouth remained turned down.

Under the wispy brows, a twinkle lurked behind the misty blue eyes — the look of a man who could no longer be surprised or hurt by the affairs of men.

In his later days, Hoover often was asked if he could explain how his public image had run the gamut from extreme bitterness and disdain to enduring respect.

"It simply means I've out-lived most of my enemies," he used to say with the charm of a man suspicious of complimentary facts not checked and documented.

Although he was president in another generation, children wrote him often on a variety of subjects. His responses contained advice, only when sought, and simple unadorned facts about his own life, only when sought.

He resisted the temptation to pontificate. One school boy asked, "how the sixth grade made your life successful?"

Responded Herbert Clark Hoover, "The sixth grade made my life successful by preparing me for the seventh grade."

Marie Tippet, widow of the slain police officer, received a check for $312,916.62. In addition, $330,946.46 was given Mrs. Tippet and J. Donald Squibb, trust officer for Republic National Bank, to be held in trust for the three Tippet children — Charles Allen, Brenda Kay and Curtis Glenn — and $3,716.16 went to the city police and firemen's welfare fund.

Distribution of the money was authorized by Dist. Judge Dee Brown Walker last week.

BIG SHOW IN FULL SWING

AN EARLY START — Several food stands at the Pumpkin Show got an early start in operating their stands today. One booth, operated by the Kiwanis Club was serving about 7 a.m. Mrs. D. E. Mrs. Dick Davis (left) seems to be pleased — she had just served her first piece of pumpkin pie, and the festivities were not to officially get under way until 2 p.m.

LBJ Visits Ohio Again

Buckeye Vote Seen as Key

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — President Johnson made his third trip of the political campaign into Ohio today, stressing anew the belief by both parties that the Buckeye State will be a key to the outcome of the Nov. 3 election.

The chief executive's visit was the seventh Democratic roll of political dice to win Ohio. Vice presidential candidate Hubert Humphrey has been in Buckeye three times and Ladybird Johnson was in Akron last month.

Former Vice President Richard Nixon said flatly last week that "if we (the Republicans) don't carry Ohio, we aren't going to win the election."

In an address here today, the President declared that the overriding foreign policy issue in the campaign is whether the United States "will use our great power with restraint" in a step-by-step quest for peace.

Returning to the political wars for a day's foray into Ohio, Missouri and Illinois, Johnson voiced a blistering indictment of the policies proposed by his rival, GOP presidential nominee Barry Goldwater.

Without mentioning Goldwater by name, Johnson said in a statement that his opponent had "placed under attack all of the policies which have brought us close to peace."

Telling several hundred persons at Akron-Canton Airport that "you can be proud of the kind of leadership this country has produced," Johnson expressed confidence that the people will vote Nov. 3 to "continue on the path of strength and restraint which we have followed."

Kiddies should note that prizes will be offered for the best decorated bicycles in Friday's pet parade competition. The classification wasn't included in the premium book due to an oversight, officials said. Prizes will be awarded for the best decorated bike for boys and identical prizes will be offered for girls.

It seems doubtful that "Mr. Pumpkin Show" Bob Colville will be able to take in the gala activities this year. Colville, who has become associated with the fall festival almost as much as the pumpkin, is reported to be "in failing health" at Circleville Home and Hospital.

In case of rain this evening, judging of the Miss Pumpkin Show contestants will be held in the 4-H Grange Building at the fairgrounds. Otherwise the 13 beauty contestants will appear on the W. Main St. platform immediately after the 8 p.m. parade.

A tentative distinguished visitor tonight will be Ted Lewis who arrived in Columbus last night. Ted, along with M. E. Sensenbrenner, another Circleville son, are slated to ride in the parade.

Mayor Ben H. Gordon was unable to attend today's opening ceremonies. He was in Columbus where his son, Larry, was to take his oath to become a practicing attorney. Hizzoneer will be here tonight, though, and take part in the Miss Pumpkin Show Parade.

The Columbia Gas office at Court and Watt Sts. is aware that crowds get big during Pumpkin Show. To be on the safe side, the firm erected a temporary wire fence around its handsome garden scene next to the entrance.

CINCINNATI (AP) — "There's nothing new. We've run out of ideas where to look for them," said Police Chief James Finan of the search for two missing suburban Fairfax boys.

Johnny Hundley and Jimmy McQueary, both 9, disappeared without a trace at 4 p.m. Thursday. They have not been seen since.

A 50-foot section of a sewer was dug up Tuesday on the possibility the boys might have fallen in it. But nothing was found.

Reports of the boys being seen have been coming in from all over Cincinnati. "We're even getting calls from Dayton and places in Kentucky that the boys were seen there," Finan said.

COUNCIL backers contend the amending proposal has been designed to improve the city's controversial zoning ordinance that is now in force. The main issue at hand is the placing of house trailers.

One question raised last night by Roy Walisa concerned the status of existing trailers. The reply was that the amendment will not effect these facilities.

Several solons claimed that an ordinance cannot be back dated, although this comment did not receive the sanction of Solicitor Kenneth Robbins who claimed there could be exceptions.

was injected when Solicitor Robbins, critical of the amendment, advised the solons not to bring any of the house trailer cases to his office if and when the amendment is approved. Councilman David Crawford challenged this statement by telling the solicitor it is his job to perform this service.

The zoning proposal has already been approved by the City Planning and Zoning Commission. This panel, repeatedly complaining of the many ills thrown in its lap by the present zoning ordinance, has labeled the amendment an improvement step in the right direction.

GOP Waters Down Its TV Film Depicting U.S. Sin

WASHINGTON (AP) — A girl in a topless bathing suit and other footage have been cut from a film a Goldwater campaign group hopes to flash across American television screens Thursday to hammer home its claim that the country is beset by "moral decay."

Russell Walton, public relations director for the Citizens for Goldwater-Miller, acknowledged the changes Tuesday night and said that NBC officials, in turn, had agreed to use the film as scheduled at 2 p.m.

In addition to the topless bathing suit scene, Walton said he agreed to delete a provocative book cover titled "Jazz Me Baby" and photographs of a man in a fig leaf.

In New York, NBC issued a statement saying its broadcast standards department had reviewed the film and requested of its sponsors "the deletion of certain sequences."

The network said the sequences were "considered unduly suggestive, and these deletions were agreed to by the sponsoring organization."

The object of the film, said Walton, is "to depict the moral decay which has occurred in this country." He placed the film's cost at $100,000—$65,000 to produce and $35,000 for television time.

Before the changes became known, Chairman John M. Bailey of the Democratic National Committee described it as "the sickest political program to be conceived since television became a factor in American politics."

He said the film "appeals to the prurient and the prejudiced in a fashion which makes a mockery of its pretension to speaking out for moral conduct" and that he had urged the Fair Campaign Practices Committee in New York to appraise it.

Walton, at a story conference with the film makers in Beverly Hills, Calif., Sept. 22 said "the purpose of the film then is to portray and remind the people of something they already know exists. We want to just make them mad, make their stomachs turn."

Several times in the film a black limousine roars along a road. Walton said the purpose is to remind viewers that President Johnson drove his car at high speeds near his Texas ranch.

The proposal has already been rejected by top U.S. officials in public statements — Secretary of State Dean Rusk dismissing it as a "smoke screen" to cover China's first nuclear test explosion.

What appears significant about the new disclosure is the direct transmission from the prime minister of the unrecognized Peking regime to the U.S. President of such a message.

State Department press officer Richard I. Phillips was asked whether the receipt of the message here meant that there was any change in the condition of nonrecognition between the United States and Red China. He replied with an emphatic "No."

The communication came by way of the long-standing U.S.-Red Chinese ambassadorial contact in Warsaw, Poland.

Deficit Total Is Set
WASHINGTON (AP) — Budget Director Kermit Gordon says he expects the government's deficit for the fiscal year that ends next June 30 to run close to the May estimate of $5.8 billion.

Enthusiasm Is High for Fun Festival

Chilly Temperature Fails To Dampen Carnival Spirit

Sporadic cloudiness and rather cool temperatures failed to dampen spirits today as the Circleville Pumpkin Show opened for the 58th time.

This marks the first time in four consecutive years the big show has not opened under sunny skies and shirtsleeve weather. Even so, enthusiasm today was at a high pitch.

Partly cloudy, windy and warmer was the outlook for today, with more cloudiness, possible light rain and cooler due tonight. The five-day prediction calls for temperatures to average four to eight degrees below normal, with colder temperatures a possibility for Thursday and Friday. An encouraging note is that precipitation, if any, will be light during the Pumpkin Show period.

Come what may in the way of weather, it will be fun and merriment galore from now until Saturday night's finale. Premium entertainment is the motto, and plenty of folks will be on hand to enjoy it.

DESPITE the immediate absence of the sun and slightly nippy breezes, Pumpkin Show officials have made preparations to handle capacity crowds each night. The general feeling is that it will take a real winter blast to upset the wisdom of this planning.

There is no doubt all roads now lead to Circleville. Spectators come from far and wide to view the spectacle billed as the "greatest free show in the world."

Adding to tonight's gala festivities will be a tentative appearance by Circleville's own Ted Lewis. The famed showman is scheduled to ride in the Miss Pumpkin Show Parade, along with local Mayor Ben H. Gordon and Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner of Columbus.

Hints of what's to come were evident early as viewers streamed into the city—all of them making sure they would

Landon OKs Nod to China

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — One-time Republican presidential nominee Alfred M. Landon says the United States must be prepared to reverse its policy of nonrecognition of Red China and opposition to its admission in the United Nations.

Landon told the Ohio Petroleum Marketers Association Tuesday night this must be done if the United States is to examine Chinese Party chairman Mao Tse-tung's proposal for a summit conference of the five nuclear powers to deal with control of nuclear weapons.

"Since 1948," the Kansas oilman who unsuccessfully opposed President Franklin Roosevelt in 1936 said, "I have urged the recognition of Red China and its admission to the United Nations. I have said that discussions of limitation of world armament, a world court, even the United Nations, were useless without including China with a fourth of the world's population."

CALDWELL, Kan. (AP) — The student council at Caldwell High School adopted a new code of conduct which includes this provision:

Johnson said that as he sits in his office "late at night, I am deeply conscious of the immense power this nation commands."

In obvious reference to Goldwater, he added, "this great power cannot be put into the hands of those who might use it impulsively or carelessly."

"The world's hope for peace cannot be left with those who have no faith in the possibility of lasting agreements."

In countering positions taken by Goldwater, Johnson promised that after the election victory he appeared confident of gaining, "I will continue to work to find areas of common interest with the Soviet Union."

He said he doesn't know the course of the new Soviet leaders will follow "but if they are willing to seek peace they will find us ready."

Red Chinese Fallout Said To Be Nil

WASHINGTON (AP) — No significant fallout was deposited on the United States as most of the radioactive cloud from Red China's nuclear test floated across the American mainland and out to sea, the Weather Bureau reports.

It said Tuesday night that a lack of rainfall was helpful. Rain in the path of the cloud might have brought some of the radioactivity to earth.

Even if predicted rain had not held off, except in northern New England, Atomic Energy Commission scientists said fallout from last Friday's "low yield" test had not been expected to cause any undue health hazard in the United States.

Dr. Lester Machta, chief fallout specialist for the Weather Bureau, said some fallout debris from the Chinese test would continue to move across the United States for about another week at levels lower than the 3,000 feet at which the major portion of the cloud traveled.

Dr. Machta indicated the radioactivity at these lower levels is usually much less than at the high levels. He said that although some of it may be detected by ground stations, the amounts of fallout would be less than they would have been had the "hotter" cloud been washed down by rain.

be on hand for official opening ceremonies at 2 p. m. The throng will swell even larger for tonight's beauty parade.

This procession, and the judging that follows, always holds top spectator interest.

The Court and Main Sts. vicinity was a beehive of activity at noon as concessionaires hurried to complete their booths and stands. All remarked: "We'll be ready by opening time."

Lifting the lid off the 1964 extravaganza at 2 p. m. were the pleasing tones of the Foreman Chimes, played by Catherine Griner. A few minutes later, opening ceremonies were conducted at Court and Main Sts. by James Shea, program director, who substituted for Mayor Gordon, and the Rev. Robert Wiley. The mayor was in Columbus where his son, Nelson (Larry) was administered his oath to practice law in Ohio.

THEN the show was launched in royal style with the Little Miss Pumpkin Show Parade at 3 p. m. A host of pretty young ladies were all set to claim the crown won last year by Sharon Kay Snyder and attendants Janie Henson and Vanessa Lewis. Judging was scheduled to start at about 5 p. m. at the platform on W. Main St.

Things are expected to be in full swing by 8 tonight when 13 lovely ladies ride in the parade, then face the judges at the W. Main platform.

The area high school candidates will seek to replace Miss Page Miller of Logan Elm, last year's Miss Pumpkin Show, and attendants Ann Hoffman of Circleville and Fay Young of Amanda-Clearcreek.

As in the past, a large crowd will gather at the platform to lend encouragement to their favorite candidates. The excitement will remain at a peak until the final selection is announced.

Following the Miss Pumpkin Show choices, spectators will disperse to witness various other activity and see the many sights.

The Thursday scheduled features a Baby Parade at 2 p. m. and the Parade of Bands at 8. Plenty of entertainment will be sandwiched in between and after.

MOVING into Friday, it will be a Pet Parade at 2 p. m. and the Industrial and Merchants procession at 8. The spotlight also will be on the famous United State Army Field Band, scheduled for a 6:30 performance at the W. Main platform.

Saturday's finale will feature another 6:30 appearance by the Army Field Band, the first Queen of Queens Parade at 8 and final competition in numerous contests, high school band concerts and the naming of grand prize winners in the Bake-A-Pumpkin Pie contest.

As has been the case in past years, the accent is on the Pumpkin. Foods and refreshments of all descriptions listing the round, golden object as their choice ingredient are to be found everywhere.

There is no doubt the Pumpkin is King in Circleville this week. A walk downtown will prove it.

Fire Wakes Wife; Tragedy Is Averted

A serious tragedy was narrowly averted last night when Mrs. Herbert Haddox Jr., 122 Norfolk Ave., was awakened by the smell of smoke.

A fire, believed caused by an electrical short circuit, had started in a room where her young son was sleeping.

Mrs. Haddox, who is recovering from a recent back operation aroused the entire family. She carried the boy from the room, according to members of the Circleville Fire Department. No one was burned.

Although damage was extensive, firefighters were able to confine the blaze to the rear portion of the house where it started.

DAMAGE to the house itself was estimated at $3,000 and to contents at $1,500 by the fire department. Both home and contents were adequately insured a spokesman for the fire department said today.

Making the run were Lt. Noble Barr. Lt. Glenn Jones and Mike Brown.

Two Finger Injuries

Recisa Valentine, 9, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Valentine Jr., Stoutsville, received emergency aid in Berger Hospital yesterday after she caught a finger of her right hand in a door at school.

Also treated was Floyd Brundage, Route 1, Kingston. He injured a finger of his left hand on a pulley.

Both were released following treatment.

NEW YORK (AP) — As the father of a child approaching her teens, I have nothing but sympathy for the parent of a teen-ager.

I have a daughter named Tracy Ann, who is 11 years and a little more old. But all she wants to be is a teen-ager.

Everything in our life used to fit her. Now nothing quite does. The dresses we used to get from older girls that suited her before, no longer quite suit her. She is growing into a pattern of herself that must be original. Every week her shoe size seems to change.

"Being 11 years old is a hard time," she said not too long ago. "Up to 10 you are a baby — or at least everybody treats you that way."

"But at 11 you aren't a baby still, and yet you aren't quite a teen-ager. You are just nothing getting older. There is nothing worse than being 11."

There is nothing worse than a human being caught in its own predicament.

And I do not joke with my daughter too much about her melancholy. To my mind there is very little difference between the paranoia of childhood, middle age and old age.

All try to do is to rescue my daughter from too much self-pity, a danger which I think most threatens anybody at any age.

"Oh, Tracy! Oh, Tracy!" I remonstrate, and try to let her know that there are deeper ordeals she must face along the way.

But she is hard to figure out at this period of her life — and mine. She has 23 pictures of the Beatles on the doors of her room, which resounds with constant rocking rhythm, and the chief reason she likes me is that she thinks my favorite Beatle is a drummer named Ringo.

Actually, my favorite drummer is a fellow called Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart.

Tracy is full now of constancies and inconstancies. She will tear up her room to put it in perfect order, then tear it apart to put it in less order.

Recently with full consideration of the drama involved she threw away her childhood. She picked the toys and dolls and clothes she wanted to give to a Catholic charity. Her mother, Frances, and I restrained her when she started to throw in an obscure rubber cat.

"Why?" she asked.

"Because," I told her, "that was the first toy you kicked your toes against in your cradle here. Maybe your first child might want to touch it first, too."

Tracy looked at the little rubber cat without remembrance, but with affection, and put it in a prized part of her room as a bridge of love between generations.

"I'll keep this for sure," she said.

And seeing her there in her budding glory, a bloom going away, I was desolated by a feeling of parental loneliness.

You only raise a human crop to lose it.

Thomas Babington Macaulay, the English Whig historian, once prophesied that the American Republic would eventually succumb to the barbarians inside its own gates. It begins to look as though this were in course of happening.

The big horrors of the past year — the murder of John F. Kennedy, the bombing of churches in Mississippi, the riots in Harlem and in Philadelphia — should have been enough to chasten everybody. Far from having a sobering effect, however, the big horrors now seem to loom up as peaks of barbaric violence in a country that is loosening its restraints everywhere. The heckling of candidates gets more and more ugly. First Goldwater gets it in New Jersey; then Lady Bird Johnson is insulted on her southern tour; then Hubert Humphrey is subjected to an undignified razzing on the New Haven, Connecticut, green, which is just a stone's throw from the Yale University that proclaims in Latin ("Lux et Veritas") that it is the home of the truth and the light. The heckling is indulged in by the rougher elements in both parties. But the worst in the beast comes out when hotheads take it upon themselves to shield President Johnson from having to look at evidences of Goldwater enthusiasm and strength.

On September 28, for example, Lyndon Johnson appeared at a rally in Hartford, Connecticut, at the portico of the Hartford Times. His partisans had vowed to make the President happy which is a commendable thing. What is not so commendable is the thuggery that was employed to remove any visible evidence that Barry Goldwater has his New England friends. The violence that was done upon Goldwaterites in the throng went way beyond the bounds of horseplay. And the worst of it is that the police seemed to condone it.

Listen to some of the Goldwater partisans tell what happened to them. Says James Urban, an attorney from Avon, Connecticut: "We went to the rally and took posters with us. The signs in front of us went down first — the pieces were thrown in the air. The main ones involved seemed to be young hoodlums — 16-19 years old — roughing things up. I ran interference for my daughter carrying the sign. One woman about six feet away said, 'Get that sign away or I'll hit you.' She used profanity. I was really shocked — it was like Shanghai, China."

Says Charles Dinkler of Trinity College, Hartford, in backing up Urban's observations: "First they grabbed me and tried to take my sign and take off my buttons. They held me and shoved me around."

This was said to be because the sign was blocking their view but our signs were down and it was forty minutes before Johnson came. Sticks from signs already destroyed were used to try to hack down signs remaining."

Says another Trinity College man, Roland De Noie: "Someone grabbed my sign, pulled it out of my hands and tossed it to the crowd where it was destroyed. A man... jumped on my back and grabbed my arm and hair. There were repeated cries then for the police — they were on two buildings nearby with walkie-talkies. They didn't come. A friend assisted me in removing the man from my back."

Says seventeen-year-old Kathy Domijan of Glastonbury, Connecticut, High School, "I was alone... with the Goldwater sign closest to the podium. Suddenly, at least ten of the opposition ganged up on me, tore my sign to shreds, knocked me to the pavement, and literally ripped a large pocket out of the seams of my sack type dress. I ask you. Where is our freedom of assembly? Where is our freedom of choice... of petition?"

But Police Chief John J. Kerrigan of Hartford tells the local UPI reporter that he finds no evidence that Goldwater supporters were roughed up during the Johnson visit to his town. Okay, Police Chief Kerrigan didn't look very hard, but does

The Business World

By Sam Dowson

NEW YORK (AP) — Are the rolling recessions of the 1950s still a strong possibility for a comeback in the middle 1960s?

Some see in the current downturn in housing construction, and signs that it will continue for some months ahead, an example of just such a rolling recession — although admittedly minor compared with its predecessors.

This was the term used to describe the doldrums in some industries while others continued to push to new highs. When the latter stalwarts faltered in turn, the previously depressed sectors of the economy usually were rallying again. The result was to keep the over-all state of business from the alarming stage.

Those directly affected were depressed enough. But their plight wasn't made worse by a general downturn that would have fed on itself.

Housing now is one of the few sectors of the economy that isn't still rising, or at least holding its own. Industrial output, business expansion plans, retail sales, all point toward new highs.

Weakest today is apartment building which was booming in 1963. Permits for single family houses also are below the yearly figures.

Just wait for the young marrieds — and for the still bigger crop of youngsters about to enter their marriageable years — to get to the family expansion stage. That's the confident cry of the housing industry. The needs of this oncoming population explosion should start another boom in home building, probably in the final years of this decade.

The demand for new mortgages has eased. This has freed investment funds for other fields where money and credit demand is rising.

This tends to hold down any pressure for higher interest rates on long-term loans for business spending on new plants and equipment, and for bank loans for expanded business activities in a growing economy.

The figures on current home building are far from alarming. The Census Bureau says that in September the seasonally adjusted annual rate of construction starts on private dwellings of all types was 1,484,000 units. But just the year before the rate was 1,747,000 units.

Many builders hold that the decline this year has probably leveled off now.

Conditions may vary sharply between regions of the nation. Some are reporting a surplus of vacancies just now, especially in recently built apartment houses. Other regions are growing fast, and still can fill new housing units.

The over-all economy is much too strong for the slowdown in any one sector to have more than a rolling effect.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

A WEIRD MONSTER with three heads suddenly appeared at a lakeside resort (could it have been Loch Ness?) and sent vacationers fleeing panic stricken. All but one vacationer, that is. A little old lady put down her knitting and gently patted the three-headed horror on the back. "Boy, oh boy," she beamed, "Have I got a girl for you!"

Heard about the sheep who simply couldn't get to sleep at night? In despair, he sought a psychiatrist, and told him, "You simply have to find a way for me to fall asleep nights — and please, Doctor, NO WISE-CRACKS."

Two habitués of a corner saloon watched moodily while a false ceiling was installed. It cut down the height of the place a bit, of course. "All this ch-chi," grumbled one. "They'll probably raise the prices when it's finished." "They can't do that," contradicted the other. "They aren't lower the overhead and then raise the prices!"

A visitor to the World's Fair asked his cab driver, "Who do you think will be elected in November?" "How should I know?" countered the driver. "What am I, a barber?"

EVER HAPPEN TO YOU?

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

Should people with high blood pressure avoid eating red meats?

At one time it was considered that red meat was harmful to people with high blood pressure. Actually, this has no basis in scientific fact. The protein that it contains, when taken in moderation, offers valuable nutrition and can be safely included in the diet.

Physicians may still sometimes advise against red meat in the diet because of other associated medical conditions.

Is swelling of the ankles important if it disappears overnight?

When swelling of the ankles persists for any length of time, the exact cause must be determined. The fact that it disappears after a period of bed rest does not mean that it should be neglected.

In the elderly, circulatory problems are frequently responsible for this condition.

Why does the breast often become swollen and tender before menstruation?

Temporary enlargement and tenderness of the breast is a normal, healthy process before menstruation.

Changes in the fine hormone balance are responsible for this condition. No part of the body remains unaffected this time. Even psychological tensions and emotional irritability mount during this phase of the life cycle of a woman.

Is ringworm of the skin a real medical condition, or is it just a descriptive term?

Ringworm is a rather common disease of the skin. It is an infection caused by a fungus, and not by a "worm".

Ringworm, or tinea, occurs on the arms, legs and scalp. Sometimes the eruptions of the skin take the shape of rings, from which the name is derived.

Ringworm is a highly contagious disease and tends to spread from one part of the body to another. Scrupulous cleanliness is most important to prevent its spread to other people.

Many forms of medication are now available for the control and cure of ringworm.

Are radioactive substances used in medicine?

Radioactive by-products are of great importance in medicine. They are safely used for diagnosis and for treatment.

Radioactive iodine is used extensively for the study of the activity of the thyroid gland.

The peacetime uses of atomic energy are a vital contribution to health.

THIS MAY HAVE BEEN THE START DOWN—Nikita Khrushchev is shown addressing a recent high-level Communist Party meeting at which Leonid Brezhnev (left) was elevated to deputy party leader. Auto Insurance Slated To Be Reclassified

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Automobile insurance premiums are being reclassified in Ohio effective Jan. 1—to assess a greater share of costs against those who have the most accidents.

William R. Morris, state insurance director, said today that, "by and large, this will not affect Ohio motorists in any great numbers."

The reclassification applies to all insurance companies licensed to insure motorists in Ohio, Morris said, and was approved by his department about three weeks ago.

Thomas J. McKernan of New York, assistant secretary of the National Automobile Underwriters Association, explained it this way to Ohio insurance agents:

The agent selects the base premium for desired coverage, using the appropriate territory. Then he determines the applicable rating factor, out of 260 being established, based on classification of automobile (use, type of driving, drivers' age and marital status and past accident record). Finally, he multiplies base premium by rating factor.

Existing rate levels will be retained for the most part, Morris said, but there will be higher rates for unmarried female operators under 21 and unmarried male operators 25 to 29 who are owners or principal operators of cars.

Female operators between 30 and 64 will receive a reduction. Highest rates will be for those 17 or under, with yearly reductions for accident-free operation.

Kid Patients Judge Modern Art

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Young patients of the children's ward at University of Michigan Hospital just don't appreciate modern art.

They had a chance to have a print of Georges Braque's "Still Life—the Table" hung on their walls. One of them said: "It looks like a junkpile."

They had a chance to have Maurice Utrillo's famous "Cathedral at Rheims" hung on the wall. One of them said: "If he'd point some ghosts coming out of the walls, he'd have it made."

So, an art committee of the hospital's volunteer's guild is installing paintings a little more suited to young patients' tastes.

The more welcome paintings include six works chosen by an "art jury" of nearly two dozen members of the younger hospital set.

In contrast with the prints of the masterpieces, the youngsters chose from a selection of paintings done by students at the Forsyth Junior High School art classes in Ann Arbor.

Red Chinese Book's Price Cut Sharply

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The China Books & Periodicals shop in San Francisco is offering a Red Chinese publication for sale which has just been reduced from $1.25 to 75 cents.

The title: "People of the World Unite for the Complete, Thorough, Total and Resolute Prohibition and Destruction of Nuclear Weapons."

English Mass Ordered

ROME (AP) — The last Sunday of next month, Nov. 29, is the day English is to be substituted for Latin at Mass in most of the Roman Catholic churches in the United States.

These were the ones they really liked, the children ex-plain.

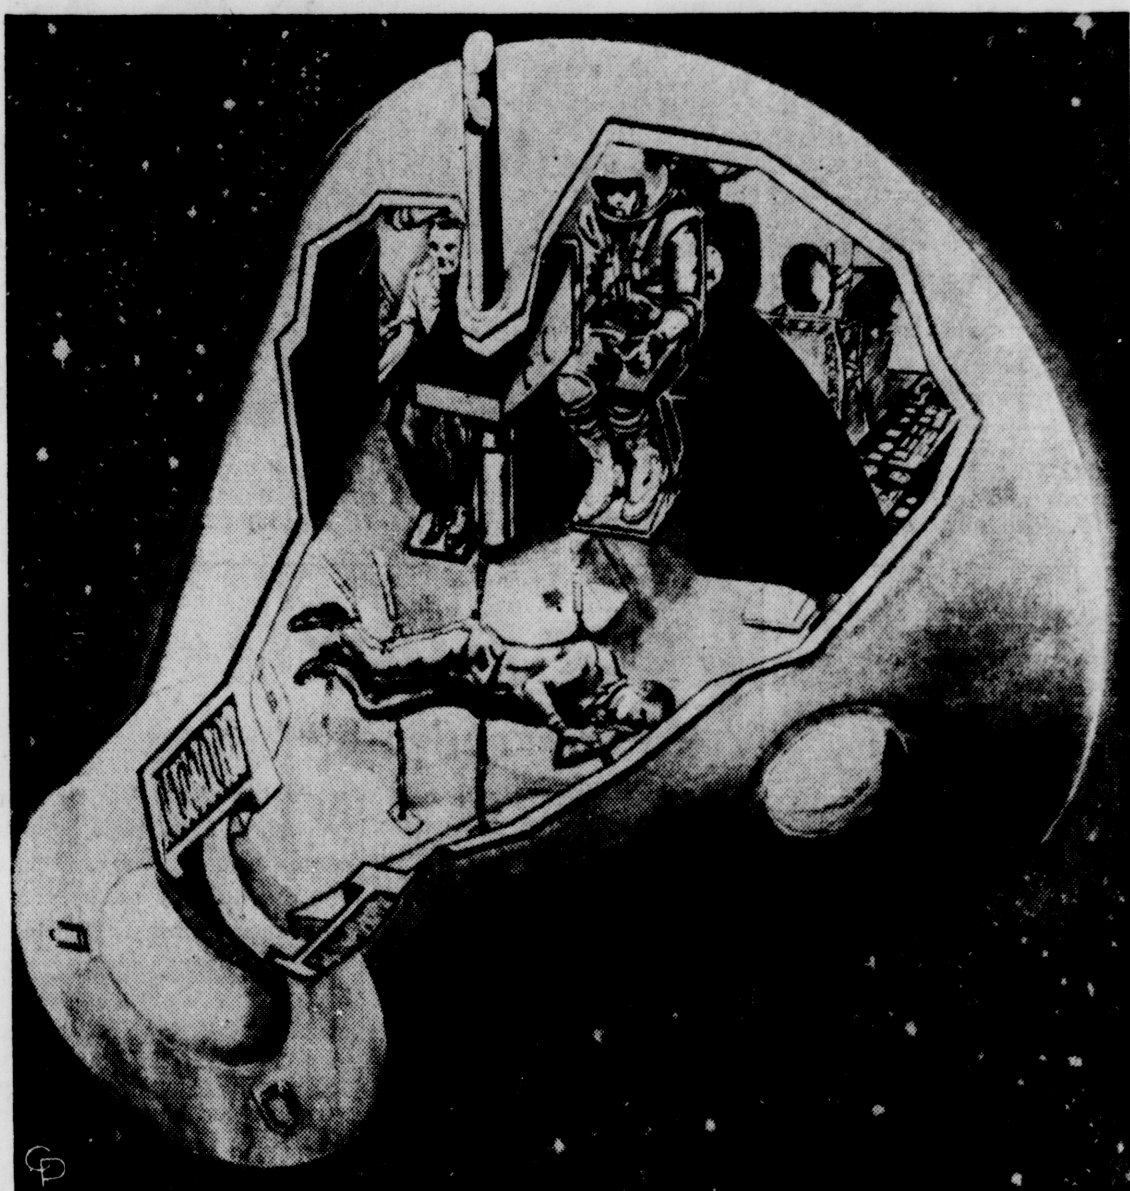

"Hickory, Dickory Dock," for example, won unanimous approval. "Little Jack Horner," also was accepted unanimously. With some seated in wheel-chairs, others displaying bandages and all in hospital garb, the critics aged 4 to 12 watched while volunteer guild members lifted each painting for judging.

"I get sicker the more I look at it," said one juror, scratching her adhesive tape while examining Renoir's "Patinage a Longchamps."

A student painting of a rhinoceros, done in red, yellow and orange, won prompt approval, however.

The only masterpiece deemed acceptable was Georges Pierre Seurat's "The Seine at Courbe-Voie." It beat the rhinoceros by two votes.

Wife Preservers

Iron-on patches really stick if you place a piece of aluminum foil under the patching area, another over the patch before pressing on.

Dear Abby: Voice of Experience!

DEAR ABBY: I have never written a letter like this before, and I do so now hoping it will help other young people to get on the right track. I am 20, and come from what could be called an average middle-class family. I have been doing a lot of reading lately, including your column. I recognize myself in so many of the letters other young people have written to you, such as, "My parents won't let me have a car," or, "My parents want to know where I am every minute," or, "My parents place too many restrictions on me."

Well, I had my own car at 16. I kept any hours I pleased, and I got what I wanted about 90 per cent of the time. If my parents refused me anything, I either argued, or I sulked until I got my own way. How wrong I was. I wish you would tell parents that they would do their children a tremendous favor if they learned how to say "NO" to them . . . and stuck to it.

A few months ago I would have laughed at this, but my outlook has changed.

I love and respect my parents, Abby. But I didn't become a spoiled, self-centered brat all by myself. I had plenty of help.

Sincerely,
R.J.E. IN CELL 63

DEAR ABBY: I am a college freshman and there is a young man I see every day that I would like to get to know better, but I don't know how to go about it. He is a foreigner, and hasn't been in this country too long, but he looks like he would be very interesting. We are both in the same chemistry class. How do I strike up a conversation with him?

DEAR INTERESTED: Ask him to light your Bunsen burner. It could start a low flame.

DEAR ABBY: I am writing in hopes that you can help this young couple who are on the verge of getting a divorce. They were married just after the boy

Republican Women Plan Rally, Dinner

The Pickaway County Women's Republican Club will sponsor a meet the candidates night, rally and covered dish dinner 6:30 p. m. Monday at the Scioto Valley Grange Hall, Circleville-Lockbourne Road.

Special music will be presented by the Goldwater Girls, directed by Mrs. Don E. Ringer, and the Meta-Larks, comprised of Mrs. Boyd Fausnaugh, Mrs. Neal Barr, Mrs. Chester Peters and Mrs. David Dill.

William H. Harsha, U.S. Congressman from the sixth district, will be guest speaker. Other candidates include, Richard B. Metcalf, David E. McDonald, Wilison H. Leist, Earl E. Liff, Sara N. Dresbach, William Ammer and Robert W. Wood.

Anyone planning to attend is requested to bring their own table service.

Fresh green peas, from market or garden, are wonderfully good served with melted butter, but they are also delicious flavored with fresh dill or fresh mint.

BOGGED DOWN

DEAR BOGGED: NO ONE can help unless the parties involved want to be helped. The young wife can make it difficult for her husband to obtain the divorce, but she can't force him to live with her. Assuming she could "save" the marriage, a young husband who feels trapped and bitter would make a poor husband and a worse father.

Kappa Beta Class Names Committees

Members of the Kappa Beta Class of First EUB Church met Tuesday evening in the home of Miss Mary Ward, E. Franklin St. Mrs. Sam Rathburn, Lancaster, was co-hostess.

Mrs. Tom Weaver, president, presided over the business meeting. She named the following to serve as a calendar committee: Miss Anna Mae Styers, chairman; Mrs. Carl Baker and Miss Phyllis Hawkes. For the nominating committee Mrs. Weaver appointed Mrs. Woodrow Carley chairman. She will be assisted by Miss Ward and Mrs. Dixie Watters. Election of officers will be held next month.

It was voted that the class continue to give annually to the church flower fund. Miss Lucille Kirkwood reminded members that the church revival begins Sunday and urged all to attend.

Miss Janie Haynes was a guest. Games were played. Prizes were awarded to Mrs. Bill Goff, Mrs. Elliott Hawkes and Mrs. Dixie Watters.

Hostesses for next month's meeting will be Mrs. Hawkes and Miss Styers.

Donna Moss Honored on 12th Birthday

A Halloween theme was used in the decorating with orange and black streamers featured in the dining room.

Games were played and prizes were won by Shirley Smyers, Jane Spung, Brian Moss, Darlene Collins and Billy Anderson.

Others attending were Karen Maxson, Susie Chaffin, Mike Daniels, Judy Barnhart, Brenda Barnhart, Nellie Harper, Dacia Luckhart and Betty Brintlinger. Refreshments of ice cream, cake and punch were served.

Ideal Disposable Products

NEW TREND — Throwaway aids eliminate work and are convenient for entertaining as shown above. There are no dishes to do when chicken is served in a basket lined with a colorful disposable paper place mat.

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

"Guaranteed to last a lifetime," used to be the phrase that got cash customers to shell out the coin of the realm. It still has sales appeal, but so does a new one word slogan that promises a product won't last long at all because it's "disposable."

Where shoppers are concerned this is a magic word. It denotes a product designed for convenience — all kinds.

In the beauty-grooming field, for example, throwaway aids are boon to the traveler.

In this category, you'll find disposable pads impregnated with cleanser and tiny packets holding such aids as shampoo and detergent. Use once and toss them out.

Disposable shoe-shiners are new to the throw-away field. About the size of a restaurant pat of jelly, each container shines a pair of shoes and is then thrown away. There are eight shiners to a package in black, brown, white or neutral.

Disposable dress shields are also new and so convenient. There's no need to pin or sew them in place. They have adhesive-coated tabs that adhere to dress fabric. Use them a few times and then dispose of them.

The most convenient throwaways of all are those designed for use in the food field.

Praise be for paper plates! They eliminate the dish-washing chore and make entertaining easy.

In my house paper service is the rule when company's coming.

I use plastic-coated plates because they don't absorb moisture and can safely serve anything except a soupy gravy or something that requires strenuous carving.

The idea sounded chintzy to a friend of mine until she saw the plates in action. Pretty patterned, they look as lovely as fine china.

I place mine on rattan holders. This gives them body and adds to their eye appeal.

Paper cups — the small size ones — are great, too especially when the household abounds with children. Use them to serve fruit juice, milk or ice cream and to hold candy, raisins or cookie snacks during the trek outdoors. They're fun in the sand pile too.

Paper place mats with a fabric-like finish are another boon to the busy woman. They're decorative indeed and cut down considerably on washing-ironing chores because you toss them into the wastebasket, not the laundry.

Paper napkins rate high for the same practical reasons.

The new trend toward throwaway aids, such as these, is the greatest. They offer convenience and eliminate work and that makes them wonderful where women are concerned.

Everts High School Class Holds Reunion

The class of 1906 of Everts High School held its annual reunion last night with a dinner at the Pickaway Arms, E. Mound St.

Members present were Mrs. Howard B. Moore, Ralph Cur-tain, and Mrs. Clarence Myers, Circleville; Mrs. James Patton, Columbus; Mrs. Walter Ebbersbach and Seward Folsom, both of Lima; Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Goddard, San Pierre, Ind.; Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Lucas, Columbus.

Mrs. William Kirshner of Lima, daughter of Mrs. Ebbersbach, was a guest.

Following dinner the group adjourned to the home of Mrs. Moore, 304 S. Court St., for an evening of visiting. Mr. Folsom showed slides of his recent European trip.

To make a quart of liquid skim milk from nonfat dry milk powder, use ¾ cup of the powder and 4 cups of water; to make a quart of liquid skim milk from nonfat dry milk crystals, use 1-1/3 cups of the crystals and 3¾ cups of water.

Use the same amount of salt — ¼ teaspoon — for each cup of milk in making a white sauce whether the sauce is thin, medium or thick.

Borge Nearing 25th Year Of His Romance with U.S.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Victor Borge will soon be marking the 25th anniversary of a long-blooming romance between himself and the United States of America.

It began back in 1940 when the Danish piano-humorist and Adolf Hitler decided to disagree. "And look what happened to him!" Borge is fond of pointing out.

Borge recently was back in Hollywood to emcee a couple of Hollywood Palace shows and to pick up some handsome fees for local engagements with his one-man show. In between, he paused to reflect in his Chateau Marmont penthouse suite about the changes in his life during the past quarter-century.

"I had been enemy No. 1 of the small but active Nazi party in Denmark," he recalled. "They constantly attacked me on the front pages of their newspaper because I spoke my mind about Hitler. I knew the invasion was coming and I would be on the liquidation list, so I took an engagement in Sweden."

The Germans did invade Denmark, and Borge's return was demanded. He replied that he had contracts to fulfill, and he managed to have his wife join him. Because she was an American citizen, he managed to join her on the last transport ship leaving from northern Europe.

Borge is fond of recalling his equipment for conversation when he arrived in New York.

"My English consisted of what I remembered from school 15 years before," he said. "Mostly it was 'I am, you are, he is, etc.'"

But Borge is a fast study, and he soon learned the language — and the customs. He had his first engagement at a charity affair in Palm Beach, Fla., filling in when Hildegard became ill. He was a hit from the start and played a date at a Palm Beach night club. He was wary, however, of appearances before small audiences.

He realized his material, such as phonetic punctuation and playing the "Blue Danube" backwards, might easily be lifted by other entertainers. He wanted to establish it with a mass audience so it would be identified forever as his own.

Borge decided to go to California, where living might be cheaper and there was a chance of getting into the movies. Through Danish friends he got an audition before Rudy Vallee, who helped place him on Bing Crosby's Kraft Music Hall. He was a guest star for a whole year, and his American career was launched.

OLD DOGS—NEW TRICKS?

Q. Isn't it true that many old people are slow to learn, rigid in their thinking, and set in their ways?

A. They may be set in their ways but study after study, using so-called intelligence tests, show that persons at 50 tend to make higher scores than they did on the same tests given in college 30 years previously. A mature person may learn differently from, but nonetheless as well as, a younger person.

TRANSFUSION BRINGS NO CHANGE

Q. Is the physical or mental makeup of a person who receives another person's blood changed in any way?

A. In no way whatsoever. Blood is a fluid designed primarily to transport food to body tissues and carry away waste products. While blood is, to be sure, a highly complex and important part of our anatomical system, it possesses no "personality" or permanence. Red blood cells, the chief component of blood, have a life span of something less than four months. As red cells and other blood components wear out they are replaced with new ones. Red cells transfused from another person have a relatively short life span so that, after a month or so, few "foreign" cells remain in the recipient's body.

In terms of health benefits, prescribed medicine is the biggest bargain for the money.

Ohio Board Urges Parents, Schools Pay Juvenile Bill

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Parents and school districts should not be relieved of financial responsibility when a youngster is committed to a state juvenile rehabilitation institution, Ohio's Youth Services Advisory board said.

The board submitted a five-year plan to Gov. James A. Rhodes which calls for construction or purchase—through a bond issue—of additional facilities to more than double existing ones.

It also recommended increasing the staff of the state youth commission's community relations division "to help curb the increasing rate of delinquency," and urged the doubling of the average institutional stay for youngsters from six months to a year.

Commenting on school districts being relieved of cost of education youngsters when they are committed to state institutions, the board said: "It seems equitable that the individual school district should continue to pay for the cost of educating the child."

Also suggested was payment of the youth commission of the child's per capita share of state public school foundation funds. And, said the board, parents of delinquent children should be held financially responsible through passage of laws allowing the Ohio Support Bureau to require the same rates as applied to relatives of persons committed to mental institutions.

Federal money might also be available through the Equal Opportunities Act and Federal Vocational Act, the advisory board said.

In connection with the bond issue proposal, the board suggested an Ohio public facilities finance commission to set up the program, and bonds might be retired through an increase in liquor taxes until payment is completed.

Some 1,500 youngsters now are confined in facilities for 1,267, the board said, and admissions continue to rise. It said two permanent institutions housing 300 boys each, a similar institution for girls and three camps for 75 boys each are needed.

New York Senate Race Still Uncertain

NEW YORK (AP) — New York's senatorial election at this late stage is still a guessing-game, based on the effect of elements as elusive as quicksilver and the answers to some key questions.

Will the "magic name" carry Robert F. Kennedy to victory over his Republican opponent, Sen. Kenneth B. Keating?

Certainly, it has brought out huge, emotionally aroused crowds. In Glens Falls, at 1 a.m., for example, people were still lining the streets, some wearing night clothes, to see Kennedy. He has had tremendous exposure to voters since the first moments of his campaign.

It is anybody's guess as to how much of this frenzy will translate into votes on Nov. 3. Kennedy thinks a fraction of it will.

What has been the effect of Keating's refusal to support Sen. Barry Goldwater, the GOP candidate for president?

"There are fundamental differences of viewpoint," Keating said when he declined to endorse the national ticket.

Democratic leaders in two communities of upstate New York told this correspondent they believed Keating's action would win over some Democratic votes. "You hear a lot of talk from people who say they like what Keating did about Goldwater," they said.

President Johnson is expected to carry New York by a mighty margin. The New York Daily News, announcing the first findings in its presidential straw poll last week, said the survey showed Johnson running three-to-one ahead of Goldwater.

Question: How many New Yorkers who vote for Johnson will simply pull the lever for a straight Democratic ticket, thus also casting a ballot for Kennedy? And how many others will split the ticket to vote for Keating?

Republicans hopefully recall some notable instances of ticket-splitting. In 1962, Democrat Arthur Levitt was elected state controller by 790,000 votes while GOP Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller was winning by 530,000.

If Kennedy receives a "sympathy vote" as the brother of the assassinated president, Keating may be the recipient of a "sympathy vote" on other grounds.

The "carpetbagger" issue is a handicap to Kennedy. He was born in Massachusetts and lived in Virginia before moving to New York, where he had lived for a time many years ago. Keating twist him about this, saying "it's difficult to become an instant New Yorker," and, "here are people who have been waiting in line at the World's Fair longer than my opponent has been in New York."

But Keating has another handicap in the form of the Conservative Party which has put up a senatorial candidate, Henry Paolucci. Paolucci, 43, is a professor of history and political science at Iona College, New Rochelle.

In the 1962 elections, the Conservatives cast 141,877 votes for their candidate for governor, and 116,151 votes for their senatorial candidate.

If the Keating-Kennedy contest is close, these 100,000-plus votes could spell the difference.

The minority groups in New York are generally believed to vote Democratic. Thus, Kennedy should be the beneficiary of most of the support of these groups. But here, again, there may be a question in this election.

Keating has been active in the field of civil rights. He authored the Civil Rights Act of 1957 and aides say he contributed substantially to other such bills.

"Sure, I know that," said a Negro in Hempstead, L.I., "but most Negroes don't. They know what Kennedy and his brother did."

However, a Negro attorney in Harlem, Mrs. Cora T. Walker, said, "that was true earlier in the campaign but we've been getting the word around about Keating. There's a good deal of re-thinking now." Mrs. Walker is a Republican.

The Negro newspaper, New York Amsterdam News, has endorsed Kennedy, saying he was "a great attorney-general and we believe he will make a great senator."

Kennedy is 38, trim, tailored, with all the Kennedy drive and determination. He took his pre-law training at Harvard and then was graduated from the University of Virginia Law School. He went immediately into the criminal division of the Department of Justice.

He managed John F. Kennedy's 1952 campaign for senator from Massachusetts and the 1960 campaign for president.

In the present election battle, Kennedy has referred often to what he considers the principal achievements of the Kennedy-Johnson Administration and to the actions of his later brother.

Keating is 64. He has a ruddy complexion, blue eyes, grey hair worn long, and an incandescent smile.

At one time, he was a Latin teacher. When he was 20, he entered Harvard Law School and later joined a law firm.

He has been in Washington 18 years, first as a congressman and now as a senator.

Where does the race stand at this stage?

The New York Daily News poll had Kennedy ahead, three-to-two. Herbert Brownell, former attorney-general, now Keating's campaign director, says the senator is ahead by "a hair's breadth."

126-Year-Old GOP Paper Backs LBJ

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—The Akron Beacon Journal said Tuesday for the first time in its 126-year history it is backing a Democrat for President.

The newspaper said in an editorial it favors President Johnson for positive reasons.

"Lyndon Johnson has a wealth of experience behind him," it said. "He has demonstrated his qualities of leadership. He is a responsible man. He speaks clearly and is understood. Lyndon Johnson is a man whose leadership Americans and the world can trust to show the way to national prosperity and peace."

There are nearly 25,000 titles in paperbacks, ranging from Aristotelean philosophy to Pogo humor.

The World Today

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP) — The greatest single difference between President Herbert Hoover, who died Tuesday, and President Franklin D. Roosevelt was perhaps this: Hoover was more rigid. It showed in the way they fought the depression.

Neither the self-made Hoover nor the born-rich Roosevelt seemed to have a clearly thought out philosophy of government and its responsibilities. Neither man was an intellectual.

The long tradition of rugged individualism and a minimum of government interference in the lives of Americans reached its peak in the latter part of the 19th century and the early part of the 20th.

These were the years when Hoover and Roosevelt were growing up and maturing. Both men were heirs of this tradition. But while Hoover sought to cling to it, Roosevelt was willing to abandon it. That made all the difference.

Yet, by the time Roosevelt defeated him in the 1932 election, Hoover had gone further in using government resources to fight the nation's economic collapse than any depression president in history.

The steps he took paved the way for the New Deal. But they fell short of being enough. He never truly had an antidepression program. But neither did Roosevelt before he took office.

In the 1932 campaign Hoover spent most of his time defending what he had — or had not — done. Roosevelt made proposals, bobbed, weaved, vacillated, reversed his ground and contradicted himself.

At times he proposed going further than Hoover in coping with depression. At times he suggested doing less. This made it appear at times that he didn't understand the problem.

Hoover had been berated for three years for not throwing more of the government's resources into the struggle to revitalize the economy, although under him the government went into debt trying to help out.

It seems ironic now, but the Democrats criticized him not because he had done too little but because he had done too much. Their main criticism — and Roosevelt was the main spokesman — was that Hoover was a profligate spender.

Roosevelt complained that Hoover wanted too much control in Washington while at the same time he himself was proposing policies that would put more control there.

Roosevelt proposed increasing aid to the unemployed while wanting to cut spending, which he even promised to reduce 25 per cent. Yet, as it turned out, in his 12 years in office he never balanced the budget once.

Hoover, a kindly, friendly but aloof and undramatic man, seemed bleak compared with the ebullient Roosevelt who, despite his twists and turns, had a warm voice, an infectious grin and a great sense of politics.

He was able, as Hoover never was, to convey a sense of hope to a country flat on its back. Hoover was so tired and battered that by the campaign's end an assistant stayed ready to push a chair under him if he collapsed while speaking.

One historian, William E. Leuchtenburg, says: "No president ever worked harder in the White House than Herbert Hoover but he was never able to convince the nation he cared deeply how people were suffering."

Roosevelt, flexible, willing to experiment, try new ideas, abandon ones that didn't work, listen to advice, as president became for millions the great father of them all.

Just because he was flexible and not bound by tradition, America took its historic turn away from individualism as Dr. Cure-All to government responsibility for the general welfare.

Out of that all else flowed: Social Security, labor legislation, unemployment pay, more jobs for the unemployed. Hoover was the end of an era, Roosevelt the beginning of a new one.

Hoover realized it. In the last speech of his 1932 campaign he stated the choice before the American people:

"This campaign is more than a contest between two men. It is more than a contest between parties. It is a contest between two philosophies of government."

"Our opponents are proposing changes and so-called new deals which would destroy the very foundations of our American system . . . You cannot extend the mastery of government over the daily life of a people without somewhere making it master of the people's souls and thoughts."

But the people — with so many of them ill-clad, ill-housed, ill-fed and frightened — were willing to take the chance on big government.

Two years ago 75 historians were asked how they would rank American presidents. They put Roosevelt among the five great ones along with Lincoln, Washington, Wilson and Jefferson.

They placed Hoover among the "average" presidents, behind McKinley and Taft, ahead of Eisenhower.

Hoover was not responsible for the depression whose seeds had been planted at home and abroad long before he took office in March 1929. He had seven months of false prosperity

Heel Surgery Aids Milady's Pump Bumps

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — What, madam, the shoe pinches?

To ease her pinched feet, medical science is trying this technique: Saw off a little piece of foot.

Two San Diego, Calif., orthopedic specialists told the Western Orthopedic Association meeting about the surgery.

"It's a losing battle," said Dr. Malcolm B. Coutts, "to persuade young human females to wear shoes adapted to the peculiarities of their feet. They would rather be dead than out of fashion."

Shoe-fitting problems sometimes cause what doctors call "pump bumps" — enlargements on the heels of women who wear pumps or high heels. Dr. Philip H. Dickinson said that it is often quite painful.

The answer: surgically shave down the heel bones. Dr. Dickinson reported 31 cases where the pump bump symptoms were relieved by this operation.

amending measure to first reading was reached during a 10-minute recess in the hearing and debate.

IN OTHER legislative action, the solons passed an ordinance concerning charges for connecting private sewer lines with public facilities.

The tap-in measure, repealing previous regulations, established a fee of $40 for making the physical connection and the required inspection. A fee of $10 was set for cases in which pre-connection facilities are already available.

The ordinance also provides for the furnishing of street opening bonds by property owners for the purpose of restoring streets where digging is required. No bond will be required where digging is not necessary.

Here is the schedule of fees for the street opening bonds: Class A street — consisting of concrete, brick and or T-35, $100 bond; Class B street — consisting of base and T-35, $50 bond; Class C street — consisting of T-34 or oil treated, $25.

The tap-in ordinance was approved on a 6-1 vote, with solon Boyd Horn casting the opposing view. He based his stand on grounds that the $40 tap-in fee is too high.

A single resolution on the clerk's desk called for erection of two street lights along Sherwood Drive, near Nicholas Drive. Approval came on a 7-0 vote.

IN A discussion that followed the legislative session, solon Frank Barnhill pondered the status of a city ordinance governing the licensing and regulating of junk yards. The law was passed by Council in April of this year.

The law was to go into effect this month. However, Solicitor Robbins explained that actual enforcement may be delayed due to two cases they have been filed in Ohio Courts to determine if such a law is constitutional.

John Jenkins, chairman of the safety committee, reported that an ordinance designed to promote bicycle safety will be prepared and submitted to Council. His panel has already met with Police Chief Robert Temple and Safety Director Miller Fissell concerning the measure.

Jenkins explained that the possibility of erecting safety lanes for school children along Pickaway St., Northridge Road and Atwater Ave. has been ruled out. He said such lanes would have to be established in the streets and that the results could be more harmful than safe.

"Installation of sidewalks by property owners appears to be the only solution," the chairman added.

State Fair Date To Be Advanced

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Exposition Commission has decided to hold the 1965 Ohio State Fair at least a week earlier than this year's event.

The commission at its session Monday plans an Oct. 28 meeting with the Ohio Fair Managers Association to discuss the dates so they will not conflict with county fair dates. New dates as discussed by the commission would permit the fair to close before the opening of schools throughout the state. The late date of the 1964 fair which ran from Aug. 28 through Labor Day Sept. 7 was given as a major reason for a drop in attendance.

Gallipolis Boy Wins Carnegie Hero Award

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Michael E. Elliot, 13, of Rt. 2, Gallipolis, Ohio, has been awarded the Carnegie Hero Fund Commission bronze medal and $500 for saving another youngster from drowning in a creek Aug. 26, 1963.

Elliott rescued 11-year-old Ernest H. Salisbury after the latter slipped into the river, struck his head and fell into deep water.

it 10 miles to West Branch, Iowa.

On a grassy knoll, overlooking the two-room cabin where Hoover was born, graveside services are scheduled for 2:40 p.m. CST. A list of 365 friends, colleagues, government leaders and associates has been invited. Details were worked out more than a year ago.

Finally, surrounded on three sides by evergreen trees, amid corn fields seared by autumn, Hoover's body will be consigned to his native soil. From California to lie beside him in eternity will come the body of his wife. Married in 1899, the Hoovers had two sons, Herbert Jr., and Allan Henry Hoover, who were with their father when he died.

Beginning at noon Sunday, all military installations will fire 21-gun salutes to the former president. That evening, after flags come down, the guns will salute Hoover 50 times, once for each state in the Union.

American flags around the world have been at half-staff by direction of President Johnson since shortly after Hoover's death.

A 30-day period of mourning was decreed by Johnson, who declared: "We have lost a wise American, and the world has lost a humanitarian citizen of all mankind. He lived a full and useful life, and we are all deeply in his debt."

Among tributes pouring in with news of Hoover's passing were particularly poignant ones from the two men who now are the only living former American Presidents — Democrat Harry S. Truman and Republican Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Truman, 80, is recovering in a Kansas City hospital from injuries suffered in a recent fall.

He wired Hoover's sons: "I was deeply saddened by the passing of your father. He was my good friend and I was his. President Hoover was a devoted public servant and he will be forever remembered for his great humanitarian work."

From Gettysburg, Pa., Eisenhower, 74, issued a statement which said in part:

"He has by his great service earned the gratitude of America and the entire free world. Everywhere, he was known as a friend of humanity. Mrs. Eisenhower and I join the nation in grieving for the loss of a man who has meant so much to the Republic, and to whom we gave our deep affection and admiration."

Sen. Barry Goldwater, Republican presidential candidate, called Hoover's death a profound loss to the American people and to the cause of individual freedom and dignity throughout the world.

"Herbert Hoover embodies and came to symbolize the finest principles and qualities for which our country stands," Goldwater said in a statement. Hoover served in World War I as organizer for America's mass relief of starving Europeans.

"He fed more people and saved more lives than any other man in history," Neil MacNeil, Hoover's close friend and long associate, said after the death of the man whom associates called "The Chief" — an accolade dating back to the grim days when Hoover succored stricken Belgium and other war-ravaged nations.

Son of a small-town blacksmith, orphaned at the age of 8, and no stranger to poverty, Hoover amassed a fortune estimated at $6 million as a young mining engineer.

His World War I activities brought him international attention, and he entered politics in 1921 as secretary of commerce successively under Presidents Warren G. Harding and Calvin Coolidge.

In 1928, Hoover was elected president, defeating Democrat Alfred E. Smith in a bitterly fought campaign.

Seven months after his inauguration, the nation plunged into the great depression. For this, the public blamed Hoover, although his defenders said no man could have withstood the adverse tide that engulfed him. Breadlines grew, the nation's factories fell idle, and unemployment, hunger and fear gripped the land.

Against this grim background, Franklin D. Roosevelt had little trouble defeating Hoover in 1932, to begin the era of the New Deal and 20 years of Democratic control of the White House.

Hoover was only the second president of the century to be defeated after one term. The other was William Howard Taft, who later became Chief Justice of the United States. Taft swore Hoover in as president.

Whatever bitterness he bore with him from the White House, Hoover concealed. He had little use for the Roosevelt administration. But after World War II, Hoover became at President Truman's request the head of a commission to seek economy

suite. through governmental reorganization. He headed a followup campaign along these lines for President Eisenhower, and is credited with saving the nation at least $3 billion a year.

In 1962, Hoover's health began to fail. An operation for abdominal cancer was followed by anemia, sieges of internal bleeding, a kidney hemorrhage and respiratory infections. For the past 17 months he had been confined to his Waldorf Towers

Hoover's final illness began abruptly last Saturday with a massive hemorrhage of the stomach and intestinal area. Poisons invaded his bloodstream as his organs failed and his heart began to falter.

His personal physician, Dr. Michael J. Lepore, announced Hoover's death with a brief message he had written on hotel stationery. It read: "President Hoover, Oct. 20, 1964, time 11:35 a.m."

Thomas Loses Jump Duel

Russian Awarded
Olympic Medal

TOKYO (AP) — John Thomas, once the world's premier high jumper, leaped into the gathering gloom in Tokyo's National Stadium today, matched Valery Brumel's best effort — and once again came out a loser.

The 6-foot-5 Cambridge, Mass., youth and his old tormentor, the Russian Brumel, both cleared 7 feet, 1 inches in the Olympic high jump. Both missed at 7-2 and the gold medal Thomas so desperately wanted, the medal he wanted to vindicate himself for a third-place finish in Rome four years ago, was decided on fewer misses at the height of 7-1. On that basis, Brumel won it.

Their dramatic duel, which was among the opening events on this final day of track and field competition in the 18th modern Olympic games, ended in the darkening shadows of early evening. In between:

1. The United States, helped along by the best-ever showing of its sailors, gathered in 14 more medals and pushed its leading total to 86, including 34 gold. Russia, with only two full days of competition left, has 64, including 19 gold.

2. Sprint gold medal winners Bob Hayes and Henry Carr anchored the U. S. 400, and 1,600 meter relay teams to expected victories. The time for each was a world record, 39 seconds flat for the 400, 3:55.7 for the 1,600.

3. Slim, 32-year-old Abebe Bikila, a sergeant in Emperor Haile Selassie's palace guard, became the first man to win the classic Olympic marathon twice, and did it in the fastest time ever recorded for the 26 mile, 385-yard test — 2:12:11.2.

4. The heavily favored U.S. women's 400-meter relay team, with sprint gold medalists Wyomia Tyus and Edith McGuire running in key roles, was upset by Poland in world record time of 43.6 seconds.

5. New Zealand's Peter Snell, the world record-holder at a mile, dashed America's hopes in the 1,500-meter run when he clipped off the metric mile in 3:38.1 and added that gold medal to the one he won in the 800 meters. Dwyor Burleson, the lean Oregonian who was the only one of a select U.S. trio to make the finals, finished fifth.

7 TD Passes Net Honor for Tulsan

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — "I had a lot of help in that... Coach Dobbs, the receivers, the other boys — even the defense."

That was Jerry Rhome's comment today about the record seven touchdown passes he threw for Tulsa University last Saturday to win him Associated Press Back of the Week honors. The Rhome-led onslaught has topped 50 points in each of the last two games, with Louisville the latest victim 58-0.

With six games left, he needs only nine touchdown tosses to break the collegiate mark of 23.

Miami QB Repeats For Mid-Am Honor

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Miami's outstanding quarterback, Ernie Kellermann, has been named Mid-American Conference Back of the Week for the second time this season. Kellermann was chosen Tuesday for his stellar performance in Miami's 28-7 upset victory over Northwestern last Saturday.

The senior from Maple Heights completed 11 of 18 passes for 245 yards and two touchdowns.

Virginia Guard Hailed as Lineman

NEW YORK (AP) — Virginia never had beaten Army before and there was no reason to believe the Cavaliers were going to change that pattern when the two teams met last Saturday. But Virginia middle guard Jim Winget heard a rumor and after he got through spreading the word, the Cadets wound up on the short end of a 35-14 score.

Winget, who made 11 unsisted tackles and helped out on 10 others, was named today as

Braves, Vikings Play Final Tilts At Home Friday

Logan Elm hosts Unioto and Teays Valley plays visiting Hamilton Twp. Friday in a pair of league battles. They are the final home game of the season for both teams.

And a win is vitally essential to both schools. The Braves, making a strong bid for the Scioto Valley Conference crown, need a victory to remain undefeated. The Vikings on the other hand, need a victory against Hamilton to stay out of the South Suburban League cellar.

The Unioto Shermans have a 3-3 overall record this year and are 1-1 in the Scioto Valley Conference.

A win by undefeated Logan Elm will move the Braves into a first place knot in the Scioto Valley Conference with Picketon. The Braves are undefeated for the year with a 3-0 record in the league.

LOGAN ELM has defeated Laurelville and Westfall in league competition.

Unioto, coached by Jim VanDeGrift, lost last week to Picketon by a 54-12 count. However, they played without the services of ace fullback Larry Davis who has an injury. An earlier game between the two schools saw Picketon winning, 28-14.

Although defeated by a large margin, the Shermans gained 311 yards. They completed four of 11 pass attempts for 95 yards and gained 216 on the ground.

Defensively, they gave up a total of 544 yards, with 527 of them coming on the ground.

Last week Tim Borland scored both Sherman touchdowns, one of them coming on an 85-yard run.

Quarterback for the Logan Elm foes is Jim Echard. Dane Sprouse fills the other halfback spot.

ONE OF Echard's favorite passing targets is Lionel Wise-cup, the only experienced lineman.

Braves coach Keith Merrin has been concentrating on offensive blocking in practice this week. He reported it was much improved and noted he was real pleased with last night's practice.

Defensively, the Braves have been concentrating on stopping the inside running game which is Unioto's strong point if Davis is able to play.

Logan Elm will be at full strength with Jeff Lutz back in the lineup.

However, the veteran signal caller will see only limited offensive action. He sustained a cracked bone in the ankle in a game three weeks ago.

At Teays Valley it will be the homecoming game. Hamilton

AP Guesspert Picks Bucks Over Badgers

Alabama, Irish,
Illinois, Texas
Also Given Nod

By HAROLD CLAASSEN

Associated Press Sports Writer
TOKYO (AP) — Can you think of a better spot than the Japanese capital to use the tea-leaf method of picking this weekend's college football games? The tea here is green. So is any football forecaster who is three weeks and 6,000 miles away from the scene of action.

Just how green can be seen from last week's choices, which showed only 36 correct picks in 52 decisions for a .692 average. That made the season's figures 176-79 for .690.

Here are the next winners: Alabama over Florida: Everybody knew that Alabama had a fine quarterback in Joe Namath but the Crimson Tide's line has been a surprise. A battle of ranking powers.

Notre Dame over Stanford: Notre Dame's subway alumni, even those in Tokyo, are chanting "It's like old times." John Huarte blends power with passing while guiding the Irish.

Ohio State over Wisconsin: Before the start of the season, Wisconsin was rated a Big Ten title darkhorse. The Badgers will be darker by nightfall Saturday — black and blue, that is.

Southern California over California: The Trojans squeak through.

Illinois over UCLA: The Californians, spilled by Notre Dame last week, get a second straight look at Midwest power. The Illinois defense will decide.

Texas over Rice: The Longhorns start another winning streak with Marvin Kristynik the hero.

Syracuse over Oregon Sattler: How did the New Yorkers ever lose their opener to Boston College. Jim Nance and Floyd Little give the Orange a rugged one-two punch.

Nebraska over Colorado: No matter who is quarterbacking the Huskers, the team rolls on and on.

Georgia Tech over Tulane: Perhaps the Tech Engineers should have stayed in the Southeastern Conference a year longer and reigned as champions.

Navy over Pittsburgh: A close one, with Roger Staubach giving the Middies a slight edge.

Harness Racing Records Eyed

NEW YORK (AP) — Harness driver Stanley Dancer is within range of winning a million dollars in racing purses and Bob Farrington is within 22 of breaking the record for most harness racing victories in one year, the Harness Racing Institute announced today.

Dancer of New Egypt, N.J., who has 137 victories in 687 starts this year, has won races with purses amounting to $868,180. If he breaks a million, he will be the first driver ever to do it.

Farrington of Richwood, Ohio, has started 1,105 races and won 266, short of the world record of 287 held by Gerhard Kruger of Germany.

Davey O'Brien of TCU punted 24 times against Mississippi State in 1936 for a Southwest Conference record that still stands.

Schoendienst Is Signed To Pilot Cards

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Albert (Red) Schoendienst, a Huck Finn who made the baseball field his playground for more than a decade, may not be doing much hunting, his favorite pastime, this winter.

The world champions St. Louis Cardinals named him manager of the club for 1965 and, he said, "You know I will give 100 per cent." The new job for one of the National League's finest second basemen is expected to take most of his time.

"I already canceled plans to go duck hunting tomorrow," he said at a press conference called Tuesday at the Cardinal offices. The likeable redhead still laughed and grinned through his boyish-looking face, but it was a new Schoendienst who sat in a business suit and quietly and seriously talked about his new job.

The 41-year-old Schoendienst, of nearby Germantown, Ill., signed a one-year contract Tuesday almost at the same moment Johnny Keane was inking a similar pact in New York to manage the Yankees.

Keane resigned as manager of the Cardinals last Friday, the day after his club had beaten the Yankees in the World Series. Yankee Manager Yogi Berra was fired the same day.

There are 12 greyhound racing tracks in Florida.

Duck Clinic Is Postponed Until Oct. 29

A duck identification clinic, originally scheduled Thursday in the 4-H and Grange Building at the Fairgrounds, has been postponed one week.

Russ Tippet, Pickaway County game protector, said today the change was made because of the Pumpkin Show here this week. It will be held Oct. 29 in the 4-H and Grange Building.

Because of the various bag limits placed on the different species of ducks, Tippet noted it is important that hunters are able to identify the birds before they are shot.

The County game protector reported duck hunting pressure in the county has been light.

ON THE opening day he checked 20 hunters who had a combined total of 52 gun hours in the field.

Their kill included seven wood ducks, two scaup, four coots, one blue winged teal, one widgeon and one Canada goose.

Greetings!

OLIVE HILL, Ky (AP)—Lum Barker received thousands of greeting cards recently but he wasn't happy with the delivery service.

A tractor - trailer, loaded with cards, crashed through the wall of Barker's service station.

GRID PROGRESS - - - - By Alan Maver

THE NFL HAS BEEN LIVING UP TO ITS BOAST THAT ON A GIVEN DAY ANY TEAM IN THE LEAGUE CAN BEAT ANY OTHER TEAM. AFTER THE FIRST 3 GAMES THERE WERE ONLY 3 UN-DEFEATED TEAMS, EACH OF WHICH HAD ONE TIE.

FOR COACH HARLAND SVARE, WHOSE LOS ANGELES TEAM WAS ONE OF THE THREE, THIS WAS PROGRESS INDEED. THE RAMS HADN'T GONE THAT FAR WITHOUT A LOSS SINCE 1955. THE LAST TIME THEY FINISHED IN 1ST PLACE. AND THOSE 2 WINS WERE TWICE AS MANY AS THEY SCORED IN ALL OF 62 WHEN HE TOOK OVER AFTER MID-SEASON.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of my husband, William J. Montgomery, who passed away Oct. 21, 1959.
The face I loved is now laid low.
His loving voice is still
The hand so often clasped in mine
Lies now in death's cold chill
I often sit and think of him
When I am all alone
For memory is the only thing
That grief can call its own.
Your loving wife, Hattie Montgo-

Sub Sparks
Royals '5'
To Victory

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Arlen Bockhorn came off the bench during the first half Tuesday night to score 22 points and spark the Cincinnati Royals to a 121-113 victory over Los Angeles in the only National Basketball Association action.

The 6-foot-4 former Dayton standout, more or less a forgotten man on the Royals' star-studded squad, provided the impetus that enabled Cincinnati to fight off the stubborn Lakers.

As usual, Oscar Robertson with 33 points led the scoring. Burl Wayne Embury pulled down 23 rebounds, Jerry West, Elgin Baylor and Dick Barnett with 26, 24 and 21 points, respectively, were the Laker leaders.

It was Cincinnati's second victory in three games. Los Angeles is even at 1-1.

Tonight's schedule finds Los Angeles at Baltimore and San Francisco at Detroit.

The Royals took command after a see-saw first half and pulled away from the Lakers late in the third quarter before a Cincinnati crowd of 4,755. The Royals' biggest margin was 12 points with 1 1/2 minutes left.

CLEVELAND (AP)—What a difference a year makes in the National Football League. Take Y. A. Tittle, for instance.

The New York Giants' quarterback was king of the flingers at this time last year. He was going great with 86 of 145 for a 59.3 percentage and 1,209 yards.

Tittle had tossed 14 touchdowns. Only one pass had been intercepted and he was pitching for an average gain of 8.34 yards. It was the best record in the NFL. The Giants had a 4-2 record and went on to win the Eastern Division crown.

Now, a year later, the balding field-general is at the bottom of NFL passing statistics. He has 63 completions in 132 attempts for a 47.7 percentage. Only one pass was grabbed for a touchdown and defensive tea have picked off 10. The average gain has been 5.59 yards.

It has been said that as Tittle goes so go the Giants. The New Yorkers have a 1-4-1 record.

Quarterback Frank Ryan, who will lead the Cleveland Browns against the Giants Sunday at Municipal Stadium, also has slid. He was second behind Tittle last year at this time and is now 10th among NFL quarterbacks.

Ex-Ohio Collegian Held for Matricide
BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — A former student at Oberlin College in Ohio, Christopher Simril, 19, of Clarence, has been charged with second degree murder in the hatchet slaying of his mother, Mrs. Anna Simril.

State police said Mrs. Simril was found dead of several blows to the head in deep grass in a field behind their home, a hatchet beside the body. Simril, who attended Oberlin in 1963 but had to leave because of health reason, was charged Tuesday.

McCarthy-Stengel Traits
Seen by Yanks in Keane

NEW YORK (AP) — In hiring Johnny Keane as manager the proud New York Yankees have gone outside their own family and turned to a seasoned pilot in the tradition of Joe McCarthy and Casey Stengel.

The new Yankee manager, a veteran of 35 years of baseball warfare, combines the quiet but firm discipline of McCarthy and the patience and daring of Stengel.

Like McCarthy and Stengel, Keane enjoyed many years of success in the minors before getting an opportunity to manage in the big leagues. Again like McCarthy and Stengel, Keane received his major league baptism elsewhere before being tabbed by the perennial American League champions.

In agreeing to a one-year term Tuesday as Yankee manager, the 52-year-old Texan succeeded Yogi Berra, who had taken over the Yankee leadership last year without any previous managerial experience.

This lack of experience, together with the fact that he was taking over the reins of a team on which he had been one of the boys, proved to be Berra's undoing.

General manager Ralph Houk, who engineered both moves, admitted this in a candid discussion following a giant press conference replete with newscameras, television lights and a battery of microphones.

"We really thought Yogi would make a good manager," Houk said. "Lots of people thought it was purely for public relation purposes. That was part of it, naturally. But we figured having been in baseball so long, being liked by everyone and knowing all the players would help him."

"Looking back now, I can see where we were wrong. I believe now that managing a team on which he played was a handicap to him. It made things a lot tougher for him. I honestly think Yogi is better suited in his present job (scouting). He has not been hurt financially. The Yankee have a warm spot in their hearts for him and we hope he will be with us for a long time."

Houk said he had several other candidates in mind to succeed Berra but decided on Keane the minute he learned John was available.

Keane was manager at Omaha when Houk directed the Denver team in 1955-56-57. Each won a league title. Houk came up to the Yankees as a coach in 1958, and was promoted to manager in 1961. Keane advanced to the Cardinals as a coach in 1959 and succeeded Solly Hemus as manager in July of 1961.

Although not as forceful as Houk, Keane has proved more than once that he can be tough when the occasion demands. Like McCarthy, he is quiet, serious and determined to have things done his way with little fanfare or showmanship.

"I can be tough if needed," he said. "Ball players have a right to do things to relax. But if they get out of line, I never found one who wouldn't agree that a little change might be in order."

Keane said he had been assured by Houk that he would be in complete charge, would be given a free hand in appointing his coaches and would be consulted in all trades.

"That's correct," confirmed Houk.

NEW YORK (AP) — One of the minor miracles of a television series is that adventure stories are able to build any suspense at all.

Will Marshal Dillon draw faster than the bad man? There's no doubt about it if there is to be another show next week. Will Amos Burke solve the murder? He'd better if he expects the audience to return.

David Janssen, an able and personable young actor, has been playing the part of an escaped convict for more than a year in an ABC series, "The Fugitive."

As Dr. Richard Kimble, he was convicted of the murder of his wife — a miscarriage of justice because he did not commit the deed and, in fact, caught a glimpse of a one-armed man whom he suspects of the crime.

En route to prison and execution, he escaped in a convenient train wreck. But he is relentlessly pursued by a police lieutenant. All this background is explained each Tuesday before the audience is set for Dr. Kimble's weekly narrow escape from capture.

Tuesday night's episode was typical. Working as a gardener Kimble is mistaken for the head of the house and kidnapped for ransom by a paraplegic.

Police brought into the case learn his true identity — and for a time it looks as if his goose is cooked no matter what happens. Will the kidnaper or his wife kill Kimble? Will the police catch him along with the kidnappers? We know better. The kidnappers thoughtfully dropped him off along the road just before they drove blithely into a police trap. Even if one suspects the ultimate outcome of each episode, it still makes rather stimulating viewing.

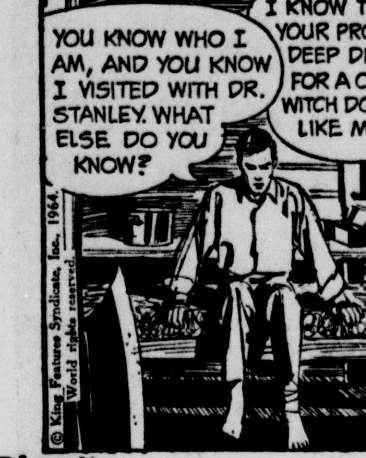

"That Was the Week That Was" has been pre-empted so often by paid political programs this season that it has only managed to present one show. It was skipped again Tuesday night by NBC. The reason was the special half-hour memorial program for the late Herbert Hoover.

CBS' special tribute to the former president came in the spot usually occupied by "World War One" and was followed by a paid political broadcast in place of "Petiteco Junction."

Recommended tonight: "CBS Reports," 7:30-8:30 EDT — a study of the New York State Senate campaign by incumbent Kenneth Keating and Robert F. Kennedy; "Beau James," NBC, 9-11 — Bob Hope in a 1957 film biography of the late mayor of New York Jimmy Walker.

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — "I wish we could remain on this mountaintop forever," Mrs. Martin Luther King Jr. said of her reaction to her husband's winning the 1964 Nobel Peace Prize.

"For the past 10 years, we have lived with the threat of death always present," she told The Associated Press in an interview.

"I think this award will create a more favorable opinion for the civil rights movement."

Since 1954, when King began preaching nonviolence as a tactic in fighting segregation, he has been jailed 15 times, stabbed once, threatened often, has seen his own peoples' churches in ashes, and while a resident of Montgomery, Ala., was in his own home with his wife and their first child when it was rocked by a bomb blast.

Since her childhood days in Perry County, Ala., where she was born, Mrs. King said she has been determined to do something worthwhile in the fight for civil rights.

"I want my children to grow up in a world full of compassion and concern," she said.

In 1947, Mrs. King — then Coretta Scott — left Alabama and entered Antioch College in Yellow Springs, Ohio. She was intent on a singing career. A few years later, while studying voice in Boston, she met the young Baptist minister who was to become her husband.

Eighteen months later they were married. Since then, Mrs.

King, a former voice instructor, has sung at concerts for numerous civil rights organizations and, when possible, has accompanied her husband on his trips in behalf of civil rights.

"With four children, this isn't always easy to do," she said. The children are Yolanda, 9, Martin Luther II, 7; Dexter Scott, 3, and Bernice, 18 months.

The Kings' red brick home with its barred windows is filled with mementos from admirers, many unknown.

A portrait of Gandhi, given the Kings by the Gandhi Peace Foundation, hangs in the living room. King has said he shaped his passive resistance program from the teachings of the great Indian leader.

"A wife needs to be as committed as her husband to his cause," Mrs. King said. "But it has been hard on the children. I've tried to explain to them that their father is trying to help people and I think the children are beginning to understand."

"One day our daughter, Yolanda heard a newscast that her father had been arrested in Albany, Ga. I tried to comfort her but she kept on sobbing."

"Then to my delighted amazement, Marty, who was then only about 3, came to my rescue."

"Don't cry, Yoki," Marty told her. "Daddy's gone to help more people. He's already helped some, but he has to help some more. When he finishes, he'll be back."

Rhodes Proposes Change In Relief Cost Sharing

CLEVELAND (AP) — Gov. James A. Rhodes has proposed a complete revision of the financing formulas under which local communities and the state would share relief costs.

City governments should get out of relief administration and turn the job over to counties, the governor told the Ohio Welfare Conference Tuesday night.

Under the new method of sharing in relief costs, the governor said, the present state aid for the aged offices would become part of the county welfare department in each county.

Centralized relief administration would put Ohio in a better position to receive reimbursement from the federal government, Rhodes said.

"Many city relief agencies have already been absorbed by county welfare departments but the financing of relief has continued to be a sore point between city and county officials," the governor said.

The consolidation is part of a welfare bill Rhodes said he will submit to the state legislature in January. The bill also proposes extension of aid to dependent children of the unemployed indefinitely and a liberalization of its eligibility provisions.

"I know there has been some concern about the maintenance of assistance standards in aid for the aged," said Rhodes. "Recent changes in budgeting methods have provided more equitable treatment of all recipients and the proposed bill incorporates safeguards to ensure uniform practice throughout the state."

"As a final safeguard, there is a provision authorizing the state to administer a county welfare department if officials refuse to comply with the law of specific rules."

The change in the law, Rhodes explained, should not drastically increase or decrease the present financial requirements of either state or local government.

Under Rhodes' plan maximum county share in federally assisted programs such as aid for aged, aid for blind and disabled and aid for dependent children would be fixed at 10 per cent of the funds not covered by federal reimbursement.

Maximum county share of poor relief expenditures would be fixed at 25 per cent of general relief costs instead of the 60 per cent Cleveland and other cities now pay. The reduction in the local share would offset the increased local costs in other programs.

Disposal Permit Extension Seen Likely for City

Indications are Circleville will get an extension on its permit to dump partially treated waste into the Scioto River.

Information to this effect was passed on to City Council last night by Ervin Leist, local utilities manager. The report was requested by solon Robert Hedges.

Leist based his comments on a meeting held with officials of the State Board of Water Pollution Control and the State Health Department. He said it is felt a study being conducted at the local disposal plant on chemical treatment of waste will produce favorable results.

The research on the chemical treatment process here — which is still in progress according to Leist — has changed the picture as far as the city's waste disposal problem is concerned. Earlier efforts had been centered on building a new plant here to cope with the sewage problem.

HOWEVER, Leist's review of the situation last night indicated the chemical process will be successful. He said the present plant should be able to do the job okay — at least for the immediate future.

Leist also hinted that the chemical treatment will be with financial reason, although this factor depends on several things. He referred to changing river conditions, changing requirements as set down by the Pollution Control Board and other relative facets.

Testing to date at the local plant, Leist added, indicates the city can reach the 65 per cent reduction of waste as now required by the state.

The utilities head said there is reason to believe the city will get a dumping permit extension of at least several months when the Pollution Control Board meets in November. He said there is a possibility of getting a more permanent type permit after the chemical study has been completed here.

Despite the new treatment approach, Leist said he feels the city eventually will be forced to build a new disposal plant to keep pace with progress and growth.

Further describing the disposal situation, he mentioned several factors that have alleviated the city's waste problem. These included the Container Corporation's assuming responsibility for treating its own waste and the closing of two canning factories here the past several years.

Who's On Moscow's End Of U.S.-Soviet Hot Line?

MOSCOW (AP) — Who's on Moscow's end of the hot line now? Whose finger is on the nuclear rocket button?

Until Nikita Khrushchev's unexpected ouster last week, the answer to both questions was simple — and the same. Now it's more complicated.

If President Johnson decides to have a talk on his direct line to the Kremlin, he presumably would get Alexei N. Kosygin. As premier, Kosygin heads the Soviet government.

But such significant things as the lineup of portraits of Soviet leaders displayed in Moscow show that Leonid I. Brezhnev is the top man now. He took over Khrushchev's job as Communist party first secretary.

In the last 40 years of Communist rule, the party secretary has always been top man; he has been premier only 18 of those years. The premier the rest of the time has been a technician.

This might not be much of a problem for Johnson since the hot line is a teletype circuit, not a telephone. Talking to two people on the phone at once might be confusing, but an agreed message could be put on the teletype from Moscow.

The finger-on-the-button question gets more involved due to the vagueness of the Soviet constitution.

It does not designate a peacetime commander in chief for Soviet military forces as Johnson is commander in chief of the American military establishment.

Under the Soviet constitution the Presidium of the Supreme Soviet, which declares war and concludes peace, is presumably the top commander. But the Presidium has 33 members which is a bit too many fingers for one button.

Lacking an officially proclaimed commander in chief, Premier Kosygin might seem to be the man. But his portrait is second, and what No. 1 man would want to turn over the decision on massive devastation to his deputy?

Many non-Communist observers of the Soviet scene have felt the system naturally gravitates toward one-man rule.

If the trend continues, Brezhnev will follow the example of Stalin and Khrushchev and add the premiership to the party leadership, or some other man will move in and ultimately take both jobs.

Renewal Levy Passage Urged At Westfall

The voters of Westfall School District will be voting on the renewal of a 3.6 mill operating levy at the Nov. 3 election.

Judson Lanman, executive head of the Westfall District, explained today that the tax is a renewal and not a new one.

The tax would run for five years if passed. Lanman said it is vitally needed to keep schools of the district at the same standards that are being met now.

Money from the tax is used to meet current expenses such as textbooks, heat, light, salaries of employees and maintenance of buildings.

SMITH for CONGRESS

Frank Smith believes, as Thomas Jefferson first said, "... the care of human life and happiness is the first and only legitimate object of good government". The 1960 platform of the present administration dedicated its effort toward that objective: "... we will use all the will, power, resources and energy at our command to resist the further encroachment of Communism on freedom — whether at Berlin, Formosa or new points of pressure as yet undisclosed." After President Johnson ordered immediate retaliation for recent Communist PT boat attacks on U. S. forces, he stated, "Aggression ... has unmasked its face to the world ... we have answered this aggression with action." This type of firm, sensible and effective action is advocated by Frank Smith — in preference to the reactionary alternatives of head-in-the-sand isolationism, dictatorial intervention or irresponsible nuclear destruction.

SMITH FEELS THE PROSPERITY OF THE SMALL FARMER is dependent upon adequate price supports, fair farm credit and progressive soil conservation practices. CONSERVATION AND DEVELOPMENT of Ohio's rich natural resources is of vital concern to Frank E. Smith. He believes the many rivers and the state's wonderful wildlife belong to all of the people. SMITH BELIEVES that the public health service should accelerate its efforts to combat disease and that medical research should be expanded. He is especially concerned with the needs of older citizens, school children, the handicapped and veterans in need of assistance.

OF UTMOST IMPORTANCE to the residents of Ohio's Sixth Congressional District is the President's Federal Appalachia Program which has the support of Frank E. Smith. Mr. Smith pledges himself to fight for the construction of an ultra-modern, superhighway which will run from Bridgeport, Ohio near Wheeling to Cincinnati. The Appalachian Way will traverse many of the counties in the Sixth District and its realization, to which Mr. Smith is dedicated, will open up the area to untold benefits from new trade, recreation and industry.
